Ranger plans new drilling, re-activation

Noise, increased truck traffic concern area residents

A busy end to 1999, with the drilling of 40 new wells and the re-activation of 120 wells drilled prior to the drop in oil prices were announced by Ranger Oil at last Wednesday's well attended open house at the Seniors Recreation Centre.

Heavy oil development manager Jamey Fitzgibbon said that after a "tough year and a half in the oil patch, in the second half of this year, prices came back and activity increased." Ranger has drilled 12 new wells in the Elk Point and Cold Lake area since prices headed up, and expect to drill 28 more by year end. They are also re-activating over 120 wells which were shut in, "and we anticipate continuing to recomplete wells." They are accessing different zones, and have already put about 50 wells back into production. "We've been fairly active." Locally, they employ 35 people at the present time.

Ranger is also busy reclaiming the sites of about 150 wells which were abandoned when their production declined, and have ten done to date.

Ranger anticipates an active year in 2000 and plans to drill a total of 165 new wells in northeast Alberta, with 55 in the Lindbergh field, 90 in the Cold Lake area and 20 in a new area northwest of Bonnyville. "We will have one or two rigs drilling steadily through the year, and will pace our activity, slow and steady. I don't know exactly where we will drill yet." They expect to recomplete an additional 35 wells in 2000, and another 150 existing wells with minimal production are to be abandoned.

The wells currently in operation are producing 10,000 barrels a day for Ranger, 8000 barrels of that in the Elk Point area, and the total figure is expected to climb to 12,000 barrels by the end of this year and to 17,000 by the end of 2000.

Ranger produces 60,000 barrels of oil daily from fields in the North Sea off England and Scotland, in Canada, in Texas and in Africa, and 110 million cubic feed of natural gas from its Canadian operations.

The question period brought forth concerns from local residents on truck traffic and noise. Electric motors could minimize the noise from well pumps but require a very costly three-phase line. One Spring Park resident wryly commented that "it's hard to put a price tag on quiet... when your teeth are chattering on your pillow" from the noise from nearby production pads.

Ranger has been following the Energy and Utility Board guidelines on noise, and studies have been made to determine how much noise is coming from pads in the area, according to operations manager

Phil Carson. "We don't just wait until someone complains."

County councillor Ray Danyluk helped to answer

RANGER ENGINEER Glenna Jones points out potential drilling areas to one of last week's Open House visitors.

He added that Ranger has "done a lot of things to reduce noise," such as running exhausts into insulated sheds and adding mufflers. "If you have a concern regarding noise coming to your home, we'll do our best to solve the problem. The total allowable noise, day or night, from all sources is 40 decibels in most areas.

Some annoyed residents said they only signed well site leases because they were to be wired for electric motors, and one commented that "If you're trying to sleep, 40 decibels is too much, it doesn't matter what the meter says."

questions regarding trucking and road construction. The County recently rebuilt the first four miles of the Spring Park road, and is now looking at prices to see if they will apply for a Road to Resources grant to continue the upgrading, and outlined two possible routes, either going south a mile and then east, or just going directly east from the end of the newly rebuilt portion, to meet up with the Ferguson Flats road.

Oil from Ranger's wells is trucked to their Section 28 plant and goes to market from there by pipeline.

■ Chamber of Commerce

Business of the Year '99 nominations are rolling in

Efforts by the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce to give their Business of the Year award a higher profile are paying off. Thirteen nominations had been received by last week's Chamber meeting, and represent a good cross-section of local businesses.

More nominations would be welcomed, and the public has until Monday, November 1 to pick up a form at one of the local businesses and return it to the Chamber by mail at Box 639, Elk Point, by fax to 724-4211 or by dropping it off at the Elk Point Review. Nominations may also take the form of a letter to the Chamber, stating the name of the nominee, reasons for the nomination and the signature and phone number of the person making the nomination.

The Chamber has agreed that the award should only be given to a business which is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, and all the nominations received to date fit that criteria.

The question, "What is extravagant about our Christmas Extravaganza?" surfaced once again, and brought forth suggestions for a giant Christmas tree, the decorating of which could involve school children, organizations and individuals as well as local businesses. The tree would be a focal point for the Extravaganza and would remain up and lighted throughout the festive season.

Planning for Extravaganza, December 10, is already underway and other suggestions will be welcomed at the November 3 Chamber meeting.

Elk Point gets NLLS headquarters nod

After viewing presentations by all four short-listed communities, the Northern Lights Library System board of directors voted Saturday to locate their new headquarters in Elk Point. Elk Point won out over Vermilion in the last of three rounds of voting, with the community receiving the least votes dropping out after each round.

Elk Point's representative on the board, Bill Schuhmacher, said "really, what we were voting on was the ideal location if we had money." With the government indicating that there would be no capital funding available, Elk Point, with a spacious, modern building available for a token dollar, won out over the larger communities who could only offer land or makeshift accommodation for the headquarters.

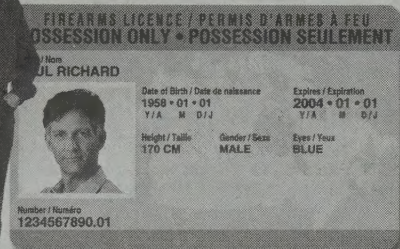

Schuhmacher feels the former Pan Canadian building will be "a nice place" for the growing library system, and that the NLLS decision is "a good thing for the town... a feather in our cap."

Elk Point mayor Ed Buck was "quite happy with the board's decision to stay in Elk Point, to expand their facility and to provide service from here."

Operation Christmas Child is back

It's time once again to think about sharing Christmas with a youngster in a far-off land. Elk Point Baptist Church is one of the agencies which is collecting shoeboxes filled with toys, school supplies, hygiene items and other necessities, to be sent overseas to needy children. F. G. Miller High School is also involved in the program again.

This year's gifts will go primarily to Central America and Southeast Asia through the Samaritan's Purse program, Operation Christmas Child.

Last year, Elk Point residents filled a small mountain of boxes for the program with small toys, all sorts of school supplies, t-shirts, socks and caps, personal care items and good wishes.

F. G. Miller High School students filled 116 of the boxes, and hauled them to the church to join a sizeable quantity filled by the Baptist congregation and other local donors, bringing the total to nearly 300 gifts sent to less fortunate youngsters in other lands.

Boxes and more information on the program are now available at the church or by calling Margaret Modin at 724-3605.

Boxes must be filled and returned to the church by October 14 so they may reach their far-off destination in time for Christmas.

Spread the cheer with Operation Christmas Child

Are we really as our children see us?

By Deanna Easthope
FCSS Director

Harvest time is mostly over and the cleaning up is occurring on the farms around Elk Point. What a good feeling to the farmer. Yes, it has been a busy time.

Speaking of a busy time, have you ever wondered how our children see us? In the fall, it seems all of us parents are busy with our work and busy going to "meetings." Again I ask you, have you ever wondered how our children see us at this busy time?

I found a story by Bryant S. Hinckley that rings true about how our children see us. He begins his story by stating that 326 school children of a district near Indianapolis were asked to write anonymously just what each thought of his father.

The teacher hoped that the reading of the essays might attract the fathers to attend at least one meeting of the Parent-

Teachers Association. It did.

They came in cheap cars and in expensive cars. Bank president, laborer, professional man, clerk, salesman, meter reader, farmer, utility magnate, merchant, baker, tailor, manufacturer and contractor, every man with a definite estimate of himself in terms of money, skill and righteousness or looks.

They sat spellbound as the president read a tribute to a stepfather, a tragic revelation of blight caused by white mule liquor and another woman, the description of the dream father of a widow's child, a dozen vague allusions to stranger-fathers, gone early, home late with time for nothing but food, reading and sleep, some timid pieces written in fear of a quick temper and a heavy hand.

But the sky cleared. The president picked at random from another stack of papers. "I like my daddy," she read from each. The reasons were many: He built my doll house, took me coasting, taught me to shoot, helps with my schoolwork, takes me to the park, gave me a pig to fatten and sell. Scores of essays could be reduced to: "I like my daddy. He plays with me." Not one child mentioned his family house, car, neighborhood, food or clothing.

The fathers went into the meeting from many walks of life; they came out in two classes: companions to their children or strangers to their children.

No man is too rich or too poor to play with his children. Yes, I found this story as a reality check we all need during our busy seasons in life. What we do with our children is what they remember and relates to how they see us.

Small Business Week

Final week for longtime business

The day of the old-fashioned general store over, and very few remain across the prairies. In Elk Point, the final hold-out of the general store tradition will close its doors this weekend.

Wolanuk's Fashions and Foods opened May 3, 1976, taking over the general store at the corner of 50th Avenue and 50th Street from Harry Shewchuk. Zarowny Motors was across the street to the east, and the Elk Point Co-op occupied the long, low building across the avenue to the south. Several old buildings, which in a year's time would be demolished to make way for a new Co-op store, were on the southeast corner of the intersection.

Wolanuk's is one of a handful of businesses still in operation that were part of Elk Point's 1976 business community.

Steve Wolanuk and his then wife, Diane, increased their stock of groceries and added more lines of clothing, footwear and dry goods that they felt the town needed. At the time they opened, they, Co-op and Mitchell's Confectionery sold groceries, and they, and Gregg's Family Shopping Centre sold clothing to the town of approximately 700. Wolanuk's added a dry cleaning agency, and also served as a photo developing drop-off for a time.

Over the years, however, "roads got better, cars got faster and box stores sprang up in neighboring communities," Steve said. Eight years ago, with the town now served by several convenience stores, "it was time to take the groceries out."

As groceries were phased out, the clothing business was still in full swing. Wolanuk's was a busy place during the oil booms. Steve said that "in the real heydays, guys off the rigs came in Friday nights and bought new shirts and jeans for the weekend so they wouldn't have to wash clothes. They bought Green King gloves by the dozen." As time went by, he noted, the oil workers became more thrifty, and brought in their gloves with their rig clothes, to be sent for cleaning.

Steve has also seen clothing styles run a full cycle, with bell bottoms and chunky shoes now once again "the in thing."

Recent weeks have been busy, as prices were slashed to clear merchandise preparatory to closing. Faithful, long-time customers and bargain hunters have filled the aisles looking for deals prior to this weekend's two day auction.

Although planning a career change, Steve will still make his home in Elk Point. He is looking forward to becoming a traveling salesman, selling accessories to tire shops in central and northern Alberta.

Pharmacy service is much more than counting out pills

To Shane St. Arnault of Elk Point Pharmacy, pharmaceutical service is "more than just counting pills." As the full time pharmacist at Elk Point's newest retail business, he has contacted local schools and the health unit to offer inservice and information sessions on such topics as general health, diabetes and herbal remedies. "Pharmacists have a lot of knowledge and are often under-utilized," he noted.

The pharmacy, tucked between Ace Pizza and the professional offices of lawyer Richard Holeyton and accountants Joly and McCarthy in the complex at the corner of Highway 41 and 50th Avenue, opened at the end of June and is owned by Denis Lavoie, who also owns the Clinic Dispensary in Bonnyville. It is part of the ARP chain.

While small in size, the store offers a whole line of herbal products, vitamins, over-the-counter medicines, first aid and veterinary supplies, plus magazines and greeting cards, in addition to their prescription service. A line of supplements geared to weight lifters will be added this week.

Elk Point Pharmacy has a do-it-yourself blood pressure monitor and will also test patrons' blood sugar levels. Soon after they opened, they hosted a blood pressure and blood sugar testing day and a cholesterol testing day, both with a nurse in attendance who joined the pharmacist in giving out useful information.

St. Arnault is assisted by two other pharmacists on a part time basis. The store's staff also includes Debbie Hahn, Susan Demers and student Kali Cousins, who recently started working after school and on weekends. The store is open 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays, and has an answering machine for after-hours calls.

The new business "has been accepted really well," St. Arnault said. He feels "competition is always good and people tend to shop more in Elk Point when there is a choice of outlets."

St. Arnault was raised in Mallaig, and said he had been to Elk Point many times as a part of sports teams, "but I never realized it was so big. I was really impressed." He hopes to make his home here in the future, and to become involved in coaching minor hockey.

NLLS Conference an enjoyable learning experience

By Karina Mitchell
Librarian

A person should never stop learning. And so I was off to yet another conference. This one was held in St. Paul and was organized by the Northern Lights Library System. It is held annually and is always something to look forward to.

Every year they have excellent speakers and this year was no exception. In keeping with the Young Adult theme of the conference, there was a youth panel (including our very own Michelle Friesen, former Elk Point Public Library Student Page) who answered questions on what makes a library appealing to teens today. The feedback was very insightful and much food for thought. Our youth have some strong opinions that are definitely worth paying attention to and acting on.

We had sessions on volunteerism, planning for technology in the library and a very interesting session on personality types and how to work with them. I may now know how to deal with my husband!

And of course there was wonderful food. The St. Paul Library Board provided food for the evening social. As usual, there were incredible delectables! It was a good time to talk with librarians, board members and volunteers to find out what other ideas and experiences are out there. An informative, useful and fun conference!

Elevator widens base of Baptist ministry

Elk Point's second passenger elevator was officially dedicated by the clergy and congregation of Elk Point Baptist Church on Sunday. A special service of song and thanksgiving was led by vocalists Sherry Oszust, Kerry Anderson and Rick Peters, with music by Nonie Wilkinson, Cliff and Shane Quist.

Pastor Jim MacLellan said the elevator project had been good for the congregation, who learned a lot about each other and about construction in the process. Norman Ellis, who chaired the elevator team, was praised by Pastor MacLellan as a man of "good vision and direction." Ellis said it was "definitely a learning experience," and thanked the project's architect, Janos Dvorzsak, general contractor Kerry Loughran, and subcontractors SK Electric, St. Paul Foundry and Labine Concrete. Above all, he thanked the Lord "who provided the funds and the people who stood behind the project."

The congregation joined in a special ceremony, dedicating the elevator "that all people might have the opportunity to be released from captivity, have blind eyes opened, find rest from labour, enjoy comfort and assurance, and to know strength when tempted." Pastor MacLellan added a dedication "that the whole family might be sanctified, the young and the weak nurtured, and that all believers, regardless of physical vigour, might be perfected in the faith of Christ."

The construction team,

Norman Ellis, Carl Ramer, Debra MacLellan, Ivan Peterson, Noni Wilkinson, Margaret and Lawrence Modin, took part in the ribbon cutting ceremony at the conclusion of the service.

The elevator provides access to both the sanctuary and the lower level fellowship hall for the those who find it difficult to use the stairs. Pastor MacLellan hopes the addition of the elevator will encourage other community residents to join the congregation for services and special events.

review SPORTS this week

On the cover of the Rolling Stones

By Doug Bassett
Review Sports

Just a few words on my Baseball Alberta award last week. I won't lie to you, it really felt good to be on the front page of the Review, and even making it to the big times, the sports section of the St. Paul Journal. Walking around town this past week I felt like some kind of celebrity, when people wanted to shake my hand and congratulate me and even take me out to lunch. It made it all worthwhile even if it didn't seem like such a big deal at the time. On this past Sunday, Donna and I attended the Baseball Alberta Awards Banquet and I received a beautiful engraved picture for my office wall. Next year my picture will go in the Baseball Alberta handbook Thanks to the Town of Elk Point and to the Lions Club, with their financial help, making it possible to build the Midget field and making my dreams come true of hosting the Midget Provincials two years in a row. I think the most gratifying part of it all for myself is just knowing that we've built something for all the kids of the future to enjoy, so that they can learn what a great game baseball really is. Now all I have to do is win that gold medal some day. So, after all that's said and done, another ball season can officially come to rest and we can lace up the skates, tape on the shin pads, pull on the headgear and get ready to rumble.

Dave Cousins and the Pee wee Avalanche played the first official game of the season in the Thunder Dome in and exhibition match when they hosted the Tier 1 team from Cold Lake on Saturday. This was a very fast-paced game with lots of hard hits, the Avalanche finding themselves down 4-2 after the first period on goals by team captain Jason Kalynchuk and rugged defenceman Darcy Ockerman. The boys pulled up their socks in the second period, picking up the pace, taking a 6 to 5 lead on another goal by Darcy Ockerman and other first year pee wees Lee Letestu, the speedy Chris Mitchell, and another first year guy who has great wheels, Corry Bezpalko. In the third the Avalanche had some breakdowns in their own end, allowing 6 unanswered goals, the final 11 to 6 for the Freeze over the Avalanche, but it was still a good showing for the Avalanche, playing their first game of the season against a Tier 1 team that already has three games under their belts. Sunday at noon the Midget Girls Storm with head coach Jacques deMoissac on the bench, took to the ice in their first pre-season opener winning 6 to 3 over the new team from Cold Lake. Goals scored by Melissa Desilva with a single, two by Glendon product Danielle Cadrin, and a hat trick by Sheena Flamond. Feeding them the puck, by the way, my daughter, Jena Bassett,

Crusaders a force to reckon with

By Leanne Wilson
Student Journalist

Hello from F. G. Miller High School. Well, F. G. Miller's athletes have proved that Crusaders are a force to be reckoned with by our successes in the cross-country runs. At district level, Tanya Pankiw and Ray Sparklingeyes captured gold, while Garrett Poulin ran his way to a bronze medal. This qualified Tanya and Ray to compete in the zones level along with Billy Turner, Zachary Duguid, Dallas Flamond and Brian Poitras. Tanya's fifth position finish and Ray's silver medal at the zone level allowed them to go on to provincials. Tanya was not able to go, but Ray did and placed a very impressive 27th out of 100. Congratulations, Crusaders!

Saturday, October 16 was another exciting day for the F. G. Miller Crusaders when they hosted a senior volleyball tournament. Competitors traveled from St. Paul Regional School, Frog Lake and Ashmont. Elk Point was represented by a grade 10 and 11 boys team, a grade 11 and 12 boys team, and a girls team, making eight teams competing in all.

The senior girls battled it out on the courts, but it was the Frog Lake Knights and the Regional Saints who made it to the finals. Both teams had some great plays but Regional pulled through in the end, winning the match.

The Elk Point boys' teams determinedly battled through the tournament, with the grade 11 and 12 team winning semi-finals against Ashmont Falcons. The boys were lagging far behind the Falcons in the final game of the match, but they pulled up their socks and pulled through. Elk Point won by two points, putting them in the finals against the Frog Lake Knights. The Crusaders and Knights were closely matched with many strong plays. It came down to the third game, both teams with a win, and the pressure was on. But Frog Lake came out ahead, winning the game with a final score off 16-14.

All teams did great jobs of providing an entertaining day for volleyball fans. Congratulations to the winning teams and to everyone for the effort and good sportsmanship shown. A big thanks to Mr. Kiss and his helpers for organizing the tournament and to all the spectators who came to cheer on their teams.

Well, that's all from the gymnasium of F. G. Miller this week...
